

The University of Mississippi

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

Michael W. Howland
Coordinator

Veteran and Military Services

The University of Mississippi

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- Many military students, upon entering college or other postsecondary institutions, find they may need tutoring and/or additional educational support outside the classroom.

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- Ole Miss is not developing tutoring programs designed specifically for student veterans, but want them to be able to take advantage of what we currently offer.

The University of Mississippi

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- Whether walk-in or by schedule, getting the word out to veteran students that academic resources are available to support them is an important step.
- Ole Miss is looking into offering priority registration for student veterans who sign up for weekly tutoring sessions.

The University of Mississippi

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- Regardless, know that you're student veterans will not be shy about asking for extra help and you should not be shy about letting them know they may need it. It's all about the delivery.

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- While most institutions offer free tutoring services, students using educational benefits (including dependents) and in need of more intensive tutoring services may be eligible to receive additional assistance from the VA to defray tutoring expenses.

Academic Preparation & Tutoring

- Whatever you do, let student veterans know these resources exist at Ole Miss.
- Ensuring this information is getting out to the veteran community is critical, since tutoring can often be the missing link between dropping out and graduating.

Contact Information

- Michael W. Howland
- Coordinator, Veteran and Military Services
- mhowland@olemiss.edu
- 662-915-5021

The University of Mississippi